A LOVE SONG.

O, lassie wilt thou gang with me
Adown the meadows green?
The pretty thrush sings merrily
The lilac leaves between;
The ox-eyed daisy noddeth low
A' through thy locks of jet.

And wherefore should I gang with thee
A down the meadows green,
E'en though the thrush sing merrily
The lilac leaves between?
Low nods the modest daisy flower
The soft wind bloweth free;
But at this early matin hour
Why should I gang with thee?

The ivy swingeth on the wall,
With sunlight glints between;
O lassie, thou so fair and tall,
Come down the meadows green!
And by yon brook grow violets blue,
Like unto thy sweet eyes
O come and hear my love so true—
The love that never dies.

Yea, laddie, an' that be the why,
I fain would gang along—
For true, true love doth never die
But yearly waxeth strong,
O winds and flowers, and ivy vine,
How sweet you be to day!
O yellow sun, how bright you shine!
Come, laddie, let's away!

WHOSE FAULT.

Fred Dayton assisted his wife's cousin, Jenny Searles, into the carriage that was waiting for her at the station.

She had been his wife's bridesmaid, and he sighed as he looked in her smiling face.

It was three years since that so-called happy event occurred, but though she was a trifle more staid and dignified, she had the same happy smile, neat, trim appearance that he so well remembered.

"You will find Fanny a good deal altered," he said, as he took a seat by her side.

Jenny cas a somewhat surprised glance at the grave face of the speaker.

"Why, how? Has she been ill?

"Well, no! I can't say that she has been ill," was the hesitating reply; "but she—she's changed. Marriage don't seem to have agreeed with her very well."

The laugh that ended these words sounded rather forced. Perhaps he felt the implication conveyed by them; or, rather, the fact itself.

Jenny looked earnestly into the frank, kindly face of the speaker.

Was it his fault?—for there must be a fault somewhere.

The house, as the carriage stopped in front of it, looked as if it was all shut up.

If Jenny had expected to see her cousin in the hall she was disappointed.

Fred looked slightly disconcerted as he glanced around.

"Fanny's in her room, I suppose; I'll hunt her up."

"Ah! there you are, Fan."

Here a dowdily-dressed woman made her appearance at the other end of the hall, whom Jenny would have failed to recognize had it not been for the warm embrace and eager greeting.

After leading the way to the dark and rather untidy sitting-room, Fanny's animation all at once forsook her, and, throwing herself upon the sofa, she burst inth tears, much to Jenny's surprise and consternation.

"The sight of you reminds me so of the happy past!" sighed Fanny, as she wiped away her tears.

"And the present is no less happy, I hope?" suggested Jenny, feeling for her cousin's husband, who looked foolishly conscious that he was in some way considered to be at fault.

Fanny's only reply was a mournful shake of the head, which, rightly interpreted, meant that she never expected to be so happy again as long as she lived.

Putting his hands in his pocket Fred walked to the window, whistlng softly to himself with an ill dissembled air of unconcern.

"If you knew how that noise goes through my head, Fred!" remonstrated Fanny, as she rang for Ann to take away her cousin's things.

Fred ceased whistling, taking himself out of the room at the same time.

Fanny gave her cousin a look, as much as to say, "You see what I have to put up with?"

As soon as the door closed after her husband Fanny's countenance lost its disconsolate, abused expression, and she commenced talking with her visitor with considerable spirit and animation.

Jenny now had an opportunity to observe her more particularly.

It was nearly dinner-time, and still she had on the calico wrapper that she had worn at breakfast; not much soiled, but still faded and wrinkled.

She wore neither cuffs nor collar, while her pretty brown hair—pretty when properly cared for—was smoothed over the top and tucked back of her ears in tangled bunches.

Her feet were thrust into a pair of old slippers, much too large for her and down at the heels.

As Jenny looked at her she could hardly believe that it was her cousin, Fanny Burns, who always used to look so fresh and neat, so smiling and happy.

From the habit of giving way to all her peevish and discontented feelings as they arose, it seemed impossible for her to look pleasant now, when she tried; while her very voice, which used to have such a clear and cheerful ring, had become infected by them.

In answering and asking questions the time passed rapidly until it was nearly time for dinner.

"I had no idea it was so near dinner-time," said Jenny, rising to her feet, as she glanced at her watch. "I shall hardly give you time to dress."

"O! I sha'n't make any change in my dress; there'll be nobody but my husband at dinner, and you won't mind."

"No, certainly, I sha'n't mind."

There was more than this on Jenny's lips, but she checked herself.

This was not the right time to speak, even if she had any right to speak at all.

There could scarcely be a greater contrast than those two presented at the dinner-table, both of nearly the same age, and both endowed with more than usual personal attractions.

At the time of her marriage. Fanny had been called the prettier; but it was quite the contrary now, and all the difference lay in the dress and expression.

Not that Jenny's attire was either gay or expensive.

The dress was a simple merino, simply made and trimmed, but it fitted neatly the neat waist of the wearer. The cuffs and collar were white and fresh, with a knot of bright ribbons at her throat.

On the contrary, Fanny wore the same faded, ill-fitting dress of the morning, with the addition—if addition it could be called—of a half-soiled collar, pinned away and fastened with a bunch of dingy ribbon.

It was impossible for Fred not to notice the difference, and making a mental comment on it not very flattering to the wife of his choice.

The contrast was too marked to escape her notice, though it was easy to see that she ascribed the change to their different conditions.

"Ah! you won't think it's worth while to fuss so much after you're married, Jen," she said, with a laugh.

"Perhaps Miss Jenny will think her husband worth dressing for," retorted Fred.

"If she does, I hope it will be for a husband who cares enough for her society to spend one evening at home out of six,

Fred turned red with anger and mortification.

It was evident to Jenny that this would not have been the last of it had she not been present.

She hastened to change the subject, being aided in the endeavor by the advent of baby.

It was a lovely child, and one would suppose would be an additional tie to bind their hearts together, but instead of that it was a constant bone of contention.

Thus matters went on for some days. Jenny observed with pain that Fred was in the habit of spending most of his evenings out. For a while after she came he stayed in, but mortified as well as irritated by his wife's slovenly appearance and fretful complaining, he gradually absented himself, until he rarely spent an evening at home.

"Is Mr. Dayton out this evening!" inquired Jenny, as, entering the sitting-room, she glanced around.

"You never need ask, that question," returned Fanny; "he's always out."

Jenny had long wished for an opportunity to talk with her cousin. After a moment's grave silence she said:

"And do you know what the end of this will be, Fanny?"

"Ruin, I suppose," was the bitter reponse. "But there is no help for it, as I see. It is something for which I am not responsible."

"But I think you are, Fanny."

"I?" replied Fanny, opening her eyes widely; "what can you mean?"

"Just what I say, my dear cousin. When you married Frederick Dayton, no man was more domestically inclined or fonder of his wife and home than he."

"He's got over it bravely!" exclaimed Fanny, with a bitter laugh. "He don't act as if he had the slightest affection for me, and seems to prefer any place to his home."

"And is not this in a great measure your own fault? Nay, look not so angry, dear cousin; I love you too well to see you recklessly throwing away your happiness and his. Did not the alteration you speak of spring from the change in you? We cannot love what is unlovely. No man can love a wife who takes no pains to make her person neat and attrative, or a home that is full of bickerings and discomfort. Before your marriage you would have been terrified at the idea of his catching a glimpse of you in the attire in which you now allow him to see you all day. Why should you seek to look less pleasing in his eyes now than then?"

Fanny glanced at the opposite mirror that revealed so unflattering a tale, coloring with anger and mortification.

"It is impossible for a married women to dress as she did when a girl, and no man has a right to expect it.

"Every man has a right to expect his wife to have sufficient respect for him to present a neat and tidy appearance. You did not consider it too much trouble to dress when Judge Barry called on you. And last evening, at the party, when Mr. Howard picked up your hankerchief, you received it with a look and smile such as I have not seen you bestow upon your husband, even when he took twice the pains to please you!"

"You are very severe," said Fanny, her eyes filling with tears.

"Faithful are the wounds of a friend. My dear Fanny, two ways are open to you. You can either make home to your husband the dearest place in the world, and yourself one of the most beloved and happy of wives, or you can alienate his affections, driving him to haunts and companionship that will wreck the peace and happiness of both.'

Here they were interrupted by the advent of visitors.

Jenny returned home the next morning, so she had no opportunity of knowing what effect her earnest appeal had upon the better feeling of her cousin.

It was some months before Fanny and Jenny met again, and then it was at the marriage that transformed the latter into the loved and loving wife of the husband of her choice.

The happy smile on the face of Fred, and which was reflected back from the smiling eyes of his wife, told of the happy change that had been wrought.

"Fred spends all his evenings at home now," said Fanny, giving her cousin a significant look.

"Why shouldn't I?" cried the happy husband, when I have the dearest wife and the pleasantest home in the world!"

Perry's Famous Victory.

Sixty eight years ago a battle was fought on Lake Erie between a fleet commanded by Commodore Oliver H. Perry, then 27 years of age, and a British squadron commanded by Commodore Barclay. The American command consisted of nine vessels, viz.: The flagship Lawrence, 20 guns; the Niagara, 20 guns; the Caledonia, 3 guns; the Ariel, 4 guns; the Scorpion, 2 guns; the Somers, 2 guns; the Trippe, Tigress and Porcupine, 1 gun each. The British squadron consisted of flagship Detroit, 19 guns; Queen Charlotte, 17 guns; Hunter, 10 guns; Lady Provost, 13 guns; Little Belt, 3 guns; Chippewa, 1 gun and 2 swivels. In cannon the British outnumbered the Americans by 10. Six of the vessels were built at Erie, under the inspection and direction of Perry, in about 90 days, and by the aid of camels were floated over the bar which hemmed them in, equipped ready to sail—a work at that day of no common magnitude. When the fleet met, the Lawrence bore at her mesthead a flag inscribed with the last words of the brave commander of the Chesapeake, "Don't give up the ship." The battle raged with intense severity on both sides. The late Dr. Usher Parsons, who was surgeon in-chief on board the Lawrence, says that "for more than two long hours little could be heard but the deafening thunders of our own broadsides, the crash of balls dashing through the timbers, and the shrieks of the wounded. These were brought down faster than I could attend to them, farther than to stay the bleeding, or support the shattered limb with splints, and pass them forward upon the berth deck. Two or three were killed near me, after being wounded. * * * When the battle was raging most severely, Midshipman Lamb came down with his arm badly fractured; I applied a splint and requested him to go forward and lie down; as he was leaving me and while my hand was on him, a cannon ball struck him in the side and dashed him against the other side of the room, which instantly terminated his sufferings. Charles Pohig, a Narragansett Indian, who was badly wounded, suffered in like manner. * * * Lieut. Yarnell had his scalp badly torn, and came below with the blood streaming over his face; some lint was hastily applied and confined with a large bandanna, with directions to report himself for better dressing after the battle, and he insisted on returning to the deck." The duties of Dr. Parsons were arduous and exhausting, and were performed with persistent fidelity, until the last man had been cared for. He experienced several hairbreadth escapes, and after the close of the war pursued his profession for many years in this city, honored with a professorship in Brown university, and respected by his fellow-citizens.

The Lawrence, against which the heaviest fire of the enemy was at first directed was terribly cut up, and rendered nearly unmanageable. In the midst of a storm of shot, Commodore Perry quitted her and proceeding to the Niagara, took command, brought her up into close quarters with the enemy, and soon insured victory. From Put-in-Bay, he wrote to Gen. Harrison this terse and comprehensive sentence: "Dear General: We have met the enemy and they are ours." On the same day he wrote to the Secretary of the Navy: "It has pleased the Almighty to give to the arms of the United States a signal victory over their enemies on this lake. The British squadron, consisting of two ships, two brigs, one sloop and one schooner, have this moment surrendered to the force under my command after a sharp conflict." The loss of the Americans in this battle was 27 killed and 96 wounded. Of these 22 were killed and 61 wounded on board the Lawrence. The British loss was 41 killed and 94 wounded. Commodore Barclay bore testimony to the humanity of the Americans in caring for his wounded men. The battle was an important one in its results. It gave to our government the command of Lake Erie, which, up to that date, had been controlled by the British. With this success grave and vital issues were connected. In communicating this achievement to Congress, President Madison used the following complimentary language: "The conduct of Capt. Perry, adroit as it was daring, and which was so well seconded by his comrades, justly entitles them to the admiration and gratitude of their country, and will fill an early page in its naval annals with a victory never surpassed in luster, however much it may have been in magnitude." The attempt in subsequent years to wrest the glory of this victory from Commodore Perry, and transfer the chaplet to the brow of his second in command, Elliott, proved "a lame and impotent conclusion." So long as bravery, skill and moral worth hold a place in public estimation, the roll of fame will retain high upon it the name of Perry, while by every Rhode Islander the names of Brownell, Turner, Champlin, Almy, Breese, Taylor, Parsons, Alexander Perry and their Rhode Island compeers, will ever be held in honor.

A Trickster tricked.

Even Hemann, the greatest of all living tricksters, and whose conversance with the black art should, one would think, place him beyond the possibility of being on the wrong side of a trick, is himself once in a while victimized in a manner that raises a loud laugh. One night the magician had the most recent laugh placed against him. In his programme he introduces his marvelous cabinet, a large institution like a two story refrigerator, with double doors opening so as to expose the whole interior, which is crossbarred in the manner made familiar to the public in construction of tables for living heads and half women. In this cabinet he secrets a sailor, who mysteriously disappears, although the audience can see under and all around the affair, and two gentlemen are sitting on the stage within three yards of it. The sailor cannot possibly leave the cabinet without being seen, and the trick consists in so disposing of the panels of the interior that, although the doors are swung wide, the eye cannot detect any change in the appearance of the compartment. There are several variations of the trick. The sailor instantly releases himself from a pair of stocks when locked inside. He also gets out of a securely fastened and ropebound trunk, and there are numerous hands shown at the openings in the doors, but the most marvelous feature of the whole thing is the appearance of a little colored boy in the auditorium less than a minute after he has been hustled into the cabinet. The trick went well enough until this stage of the performance was reached: The boy was rushed into the cabinet; Hermann opened the doors a moment aftreward and the boy was gone.

"Bo-y! Bo-y!" the magician shouted. "W'ere air you, boy?"

But no "boy" showed up in the auditorium. The call was repeated a number of rimes, and Hermann was at last almost in despair. At last one of the ushers ran up the parquet aisle, making directly for the magician.

"W'ere eez de bo-y?" Hermann shouted. "You are not heem. You luke too pale."

The usher grabbed the magician's left ear and whispered a few hurried words into it. He told him that the colored boy was then on his way to the calaboose in the arms of a tall policeman, and would not be able to finish his share of the trick until he was bailed out. Hermann could not have been more astonished if he had been struck with a brick. He slammed the doors of the cabinet angrily, told the audience that his "bo-y" had been arrested by a police officer, and he would have to bring the trick to a close without the usual triumphant denouement.

The explanation of the difficulty is very easy: The boy, a smart 14-year old boy whom Hermann secured in Memphis, in making his way out of the cabinet runs for the back door of the stage, and then, with the fleetness of a twolegged Iroquois, flies through the alley and around the corner into the entrance of the theatre just in time to answer "Here I am" to the magician's "Bo-y w'ere air you?" As he darted out of the alley the boy ran into an officer's arms. The policeman, imagining that the little fellow had stolen something, carried him off to the station, wholly unconscious of the fact that he had quite spoiled one of Hermann's best tricks.

A Fight with a Rat.

A few nights ago a Hartford man heard a rat in his sleeping-room, and on striking a light found that his ratship had evidently lost his way, for he was running wildly about seeking a place to escape. The gentleman opened a door to get a broom or some other weapon with which to dispatch him, and the frightened rat, taking advantage of the opening, scampered across the room over the man's bare feet and out of the door before ofcould be closed. The rat ran down the back stairs and into the kitchen, followed by the man clad only in his night robe with a kerosene lamp in one hand and a broom in the other. Before beginning the fight in earnest; the gentleman let in his young dog, thinking this would be a good time to initiate the animal into the mystery of rat killing. The dog got his eye upon the rat—a large old fellow—and then skulked off into the corner and lay down. The gentleman, seeing his "purp" was not to be depended upon, "went for" the rat with his broom. He brought the weapon down with a vengeance, but like Patrick's flea, the rat wasn't there. After two or three miss-strikes the man's "dander riz" and the battle was vigorously waged. The rat circled round and round the room followed by his human foe with high-lifted lamp and swinging broom. This animated scene also frightened the dog and he went round and round the room with master and rat, adding to the uproar. The rat was so desperately scared he at last, in sheer desperation, sprang towards the man, ran up his legs and half way up his body before he was dislodged. This sudden onslaught caused the gentleman to retire for a few minutes, and when he returned he was in full dress with rubber boots on and breeches legs tucked in at the top. No more rats on uncovered legs in his'n. Now he was ready for the fray again. But where was the rat? He was nowhere to be seen. The gentleman looked in every nook and corner for him, but he was not to be found. The dog still occupied his corner and was trembling as though badly frightened. His master spoke kindly to him, and the animal came toward him when lo! the rat was exposed to view. In his fright he had taken refuge under the dog. The gentleman once more went for the rat and the same scene was repeated. the rat again running to the dog for safety. He was dislodged from this retreat a second time, and once more, when hard pressed, he turned upon his two-legged adversary. But before the rat could clamber up his person a blow from the broom stunned him and a boot heel finished the fight. The skirmish lasted about half an hour, no rat ever before making a more desperate struggle for his life. But the odds were "agin him" from the start, and one more victory must be credited to the enemy of the rat race.

A Yellowstone Bear Story.

The Fire Hole Hotel is located on the west side of the lower basin at the foot of the mountain, near a good spring of water, and from which can be had a fine view of the valley. Marshall, the proprietor, has a thirty years' lease from the government, and will add to his house as the business of the public demands. This is the only house in the Park beside the one at the entrance. It is a wild and solitary place to spend the winter, which Marshall and his wife, with a young lady companion, did for the first time last winter, and in this connection he told me a bear story. He said that after visitors ceased coming to the Park last fall he went to Virginia City for his winter supplies, leaving his wife, children and the young woman in charge of the place. Near the house, in the rear, was situated a dug-out or root house, where he stored his potatoes, etc., to keep them from freezing, and to ventilate which he used a jount of stove-pipe. One morning during his absence his wife looked out of the window and saw a bear pulling down the pipe and trying to dig into the root house, in which they had also stored most of their provisions. The women were at their wits' end as to what course to pursue. They at first threw tin cans from the windows and managed to disturb bruin for a few moments, but he soon returned, as he had already sniffed the good things of that ground cellar, and he did not propose to be scared off with tin cans. Mrs. Marshall, brave enough to be left alone, did not intend to have all of her provisions taken before her eyes, and proposed to load the rifle if her companion would fire it at the bear, which being complied with, a good charge was soon placed in the gun, which was laid across the window-sill and discharged at his bearship, but the aim, not being accurate, did not strike him in a vital part, although his actions showed that he was hit. He retreated to the hillside, sat upon his haunches, took a view of the situation, and then disappeared in the bushes, where he remained. The women were not satisfied and they went after that bear—a very imprudent thing, to say the least; but nevertheless, they went, for (as they expressed it) they were afraid he might come back again in the night, and, as they were satisfied he was wounded, they wanted to finish him. Loading the rifle again, they went cautiously up the hillside, until they discovered the bear standing in a small clearing, when the women prepared for action by laying the gun across a log and taking deliberate aim, hitting the animal behind the foreshoulder, when he came rolling down the hill. The women did not stop to see whether the bear was rolling or running—they imagined the latter—and both ran for dear life, dropping the gun as they went for the house, which they reached before casting a glance in the rear. When safe in the house they took a view of the situation, and could see bruin doubled up and giving his last kick. He finally became quiet, and they ventured out and got possession of their gun, which was loaded, and a third charge put into the bear to make sure he was not playing 'possum. When Marshall came home he weighed the bear, and it brought down the beam to 350 pounds. He tells the story of the action of the brave women with a great deal of pride, and the young woman who did the shooting has become quite a heroine.

The Old Home.

"Darling, wake up and stop snoring, said a Detroit woman to her husband.

"Eh? Whazza matter now?" he asked as he half raised up in bed.

"Won't you please stop snoring? If you only knew how homesick it made me I'm sure you would."

"Homesick! How the deuce can my innocent snore make you homesick."

"Why, you know, darling, that the home on the coast from which you took me a joyous bride, was only half a mile from a government fog-horn, and every time you snore it reminds me so of home that I just can't stand it. Please lay on your side and have some little respect for my feelings."

And then the brute spread himself out on his back and in five minutes had her bathed in tears as visions of the old home crept upon her.

Hope Deferred.

"When we are married, Lucy," said the poor man's son to the rich man's daughter, "our honeymoon shall be passed abroad. We will drive in the Bois, promenade the Prada, gaze down into the blue waters of the Adriatic from the Rialto, and enjoy the Neapolitan sunsets while strolling along the Chaja."

"How delicious!" she murmured. "But, John, dear! have you money enough to do all this? For pa says I mustn't expect anything until he dies!"

John's countenance underwent such a change that she couldn't help asking him if he felt sick.

"No, darling!" he answered, faintly; "I am not sick! I was only thinking that perhaps we had better postpone the marriage until after he funeral!"

A Great Lake.

The proposal to make a great lake in the extreme North of this continent by closing the northerly outlet of the valley of the Mackenzie river at the line of 68 degrees, and thus storing up the water of 1,200,000 square miles, is an admirable one for some reasons, while for others it can hardly be looked upon favorably. Points in favor of the scheme are that by carrying it out a lake 2,000 miles long by 200 wide would be established, which, would be "a never-failing feeder for the Mississippi, and would connect the Hudson Bay with the great lakes, and also with the interior of Alaska through the Yukon and affluents. The connection of the Upper Mississippi with Lake Mackenzie would be a comparative easy matter, and a vast amount of navigable waterway would be added to the river. The formation of Lake Mackenzie would also contribute to the proposed ship canal from Cairo, Ill., to the Gulf of St. Lawrence by the most straight line which cuts the Wabash Valley, the Lake Erie and Ontario and the Lower St. Lawrence. The outlook is beautiful from these points of view, undoubtedly, but not from others; for if the lake which it is thus proposed to make should become a real thing, the end of the world might at once become a concern of what Mr. Conkling likes to call the "near future." Several years ago a French physicist named Adhemar proposed the theory that through the gradual accumulation of ice at the North Pole, the earth's center of gravity would eventually become so widely seperated from its center of sphercity that the globe would suddenly topple over, and all the land be flooded with the waters from the South, a new deluge being thus brought about from which no Noah, no matter how trim and tight his ark might be could possibly escape. This theory is yet held as valid by several competent men of science, Mr. Croll among the number, if we are not in error. To establish at the North Pole such a lake as is proposed would simply do in a short time what otherwise would be the work of centuries, for the water accumulating thus in a hurry would as surely topple over towards the sun, as the ice, gathering slowly, could never cause it to careen. Capitalists who are engaged in the scheme would, therefore, do well to wait a bit before attempting to put it into effect.

Curious Sea Inhabitants.

There is a continual warfare going on in the deep—a constant struggle for the means of sustaining life. The carnivorous devour the vegetarians, and the mudeaters swallow both animal and vegetable forms; and this runs all the way down the scale, from the shark and the equally ravenous bluefish to the least of the annelids. These last—the sea worms—are wary but they cannnot escape their enemies. If they were to confine themselves to the bottom—where they feed, and where many of them grow to the length of a foot or two—they might in a measure escape, though they would still be a prey to the scup and other fish that know how to dig for them; but they love to swim, particularly at night and in the breeding season, and then they are snapped up in countless numbers. They have almost every variety of form, and their structure is marvelous—monsters with hooked jaws at the end of a proboscis, and with sides of bluish-green—and throw off an infinite variety of irridescent hues. Some of the sea worms have scales, others soft bodies; some are sluggish, and curl themselves up into balls when disturbed; others are restless, particularly at night; some are round others flat; some build tubes of sand and cement, woven together till they make a colony of many hundred members; the tubes of others are soft and flexible, and some, when disturbed, withdraw within their crooked, calcareous tubes, and close the orifice with a plug. One variety of the serpulæ has three dark red eyes; another variety has clusters of eyes on each tentacle. The amphipods were accounted of no great value till it was shown by the Fish Commission that these small crustacea furnish a vast amount of food for both salt and fresh water fishes. Indeed there is not a creature that swims or crawls that does not become the food of some other animal. A beach flea is caught up by a scup or a flounder, and squids make havoc among young mackerel, while sharks and stingrays find something appetizing in the gasteropod.

Sailed Away.

His name was Moses Sparrow. He was very green. That was the idea that always came into Miss Page's mind when she looked at her country lady's son. Such a rustic youth, with such fair hair, worn long, such blue eyes, such sloping shoulders, such a lamb-like expression—And, being there at the farmhouse, whither she had been sent to spend the summer months, the city belle resolved that she would try her powers of facination upon the boy, who struck her as so good a subject for flertation, in which all fun was to be on her side and all the sentiment on his.

And at it she went, beginning with a smile, a word, and rejoycing to see the fish bite so readily. She enjoyed herself very much until she grew tired of it, and then she decided on breaking the heart she had won, and enjoying the crash. So she turned him out in the garden and made him sit beside her on the bench under the wistarias, and said, sadly.

"I'm going home next week. I shall send you wedding cards when I am married. I am to be married to a rich old gentleman next winter."

Then she waited to see him drop at her feet, but he did not drop. He only said:

"Wal, I'm real glad! I kinder felt afraid I'd been going too far with you. I'm a sort of butterfly, flirtin' from flower to flower, you know and I have flirted with you, I du allow. I was afraid you'd go off in a decline or sutbin'—you seemed to set so much on me—if you heared suddenly-like that me and Ann Maria was keepin' steady company. But, law, sence you're going to be married, there ain't no harm done! I shouldn't hev liked you to drown yourself, like t'other summer boarder did, in the mill-pond. She had my photograph in her pocket when she was fished out." Then he smiled at Miss Page, and she arose and sailed away from him with great dignity.

THE ELECTIONS.

From the Patriot of Wednesday.

It is difficult to figure out the result of the elections yesterday from the confused returns at hand. New York has evidently gone democratic by a rousing majority and the democrats gain a congressman in that State. The result in Pennsylvania is in doubt. Wolfe polled a large vote, but many democrats seem to have voted for him. It looks as if Noble had pulled through but this is not certain. At the hour of going to press there is nothing definite from Philadelphia, though rumor has it that the city has given 14,000 plurality for Baily. If the report should be verified the vote between Noble and Baily in the State will be very close. Virginia is in doubt, Mississippi is democratic. In Wisconsin the democrats made large gains.

THE LATEST.

We had made positive arrangements to get the latest return, but failed. At the time of going to press, Wednesday 9 o'clock, P. M, the state is in doubt although republicans claim Baily elected by a small majority. The whole democratic county ticket is elected, with the possible exception of Larimer, for Associate Judge. The reports indicate the election of Kimport.

Official Venality No Longer Shock The Public Sense.

Official venality has become so common a thing in the U. States that the public sense of shame and humiliation that should follow its exposure is sadly dazed and deadened. We are so accustomed to being cheated that honesty is more of a surpise to us that dishonesty. We are in our day as surfeited with peculations as Macbeth was in his day with murders. We have lost the taste of reproach. The transaction of the Dorseys, Bradys, Tyners, Howgate and the lesser and the greater rogues that make up the army of official plunderers are as flippantly discussed as any other toothsome morsels of current news. The late Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Sherman, gets up in his place in the Senate and, in an off hand and matter-of fact way, calls for the publication of a report involving the transaction of the public business in his department in which scandalous irregularitys and abuses without any warrent of law are set forth and exposed. Mr. Sherman takes no shame to himself. It is even questionable whether the testimony—not made public—upon which the report is based would not bring home to him a degree of direct culpability. And yet nothing is to be done about it. The Republican Senators hold their noses and shut their eyes and pass on. The investigating commitee merely declare that "the system at present in vogue ought to be materially changed." This thing, which is called a "system" in the smooth phrase of the report, in plain English is theft, systematic theft, planned and carried on within the Treasury doors by Treasury employes. Mr. Sherman evidently thinks, as they were doing nothing worse than stealing the hard-earned dollars of the people, there need be no fuss about it. The stealing is justified by a long line of precedent, and if Mr. Sherman doesn't feel aggrieved it is not easy to see why others who had neither share in the blame or the plunder should fret their gizzards. About the matter.—Philadelphia Record.

The Boston Herald says the doctor bills in the president's case will be as follows:

Dr.	Bliss, 42 days, at $100	$4200
Dr.	Barnes, "	4,200
Dr.	Woodward, "	4,200
Dr.	Reyburn, "	4,200
Dr.	Agnew, consultation, operations and visits	32,000
Dr.	Hamilton, visit and consultations	22,000
	Total	$70,800

Drs. Agnew and Hamilton have been extremely modest in their charges. Congress will probably be asked to pay these bills, and they should be cut down to a reasonable figure.

Very Much Like Winter.

SCRANTON, November 4.—The hills around Scranton are covered with snow.

MAUCH CHUNK, November, 4.—There was an inch of snow on the mountains this morning, with the thermometer 12 degrees above zero.

LOCK HAVEN, November 4.—Flakes of snow have been falling here at intervals since 11 A. M., and at present there is a slight fall on Bald Eagle Mountain.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., November 4.—At Liberty Sullivan county, forty miles north of here, snow fell last night three inches deep.

LISBON, N. H., November 4.—Snow fell last night to the depth of five inches. It is still snowing rapidly.

NEW YORK, November 4.—Snow is reported falling to-night along the Hudson river and throughout the interior of New York.

A Mob in Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, November 7.—A special dispatch to the Times and Star, from Tiffin, Ohio, says: At 1.30 this morning a mob comprising several hundred appeared at the jail where Madder, who killed Phœbe Bernhard, is confined. A demand was made for the keys which the sheriff refused, and having previously gathered a posse armed to protect the jail, a lively riot ensued. Officers Brisk, and Lambston received severe injuries, but the mob was expelled, and warrants are being issued for the leaders. Another attack is expected to-night. Captain Lepper's militia are ordered out.

—Recent rains are bringing out the grain field finely but the streams are still very low, while many of the wells hereabout are extremly dry.

HOW to INCASE YOUR INCOME.

Just at this season of the year there are, among our readers, those looking for employment for the next six months. We have lately received from L. E. Brown & Co., the well-kown manufacturers of specialties for agents to handle a request to put them in communication with one or more suitable persons in this locality, to act as agents in introducing several of their patent household articles to this community, and after consideration, we take this method to comply with their request. The firm are manufacturers of a large number of household articles, which they introduce to the public by means of agents, having sometimes as many as 1,000 persons in their employ. The particular articles which they seek to introduce here, at this time, are: Brown's Peerless Sifter, generally acknowledged to be the best in the world of which nearly one million were sold during the last year; the Kitchen Queen, the latest and best invention in Coal Oil Lamps and the only absolutely Safe Lamp made; the Centennial Cake and Bake Pan, and article which has a national reputation, and is the delight of every housekeeper; the Half Minute Egg Beater, which always sells at sight, and the new A to Relieve Bronze Profile Cast of JAMES A. GARFIELD, with memorial frame, the best selling article ever put into the hands of an agent, the best of all the portraits, chromos of steel engravings that have been offered. It is a truer likeness of the martyred hero than any we have ever seen before, and its price brings it within the reach of all. For this county, Messrs. Brown & Co. desire as many agents as can advantageously. Any smart, intelligent lady or gentlemen can make a fine income in this way. The firm will send to any responsible person free who will assume the agency here and go to work, a complete outfit of these goods, to the amount of five dollars. The reputation of this house is first rate; the goods are what they represent them to be. Their terms are liberal, and we advise those looking for genteel, remunerative employment to send to them for further information. Their address is—

—Dont forget that the Journal Book Store has a splendid lot of Germantown Wool, Zephyr, Silk Floss, Rick Rack Braid, Canvass, Crochet Hooks, Knitting Cotton, and everything necessary for fancy work always on hand.

—We are still short of apples and potatoes—but if some twenty of our patrons would each bring us a bushel of each, we could manage to shift through the winter. Do take the matter seriously to heart and dont forget the golden rule.

—The Millheim Banking Company procured a new lock for their safe. We understand it is a time lock, to be opened only at certain hours. This apparatus is so constructed as to baffle any sharper in his attempt to open the safe, and they will have to think of the sour grapes after this.

—We call the special attention of our readers to the changed advertisement of WHITCOMB, the popular clothier of Lock Haven. By reading over it you will see that he can rig you out from head to foot in a first class style, and dont intend to charge you much for it either. Better go and and try him.

—Pretty soon turkeys will be looked after with some interest. Thanksgiving is near and they are a necessary article at that particular time. If any body would think of the poor printer by donating one of these precious birds to him on that day we should feel so much more for giving thanks.

—People will take care now as to how they detach their postage stamps, for the post office department has just ruled that postage stamps with any fraction of them tore off will no longer be accepted as prepayment of postage on the matter to which they are attached.

—Read our Bellefonte letter. It is written by a young gentleman well known in this community, but we dare not give the name. Write again, Samuel, your letters are good, fresh, spicy and pointed—altogether first class for one so very young. They are thrice welcome to us and our readers.

—Havn't heard whether there is a regular hog committee on duty this year or not. From the appearance of things we infer that every fellow will be obliged to "judge" his own hogs. But whether that system will lessen the strife and contention as to who has the biggest porker, time must tell.

—Mr. John Sankey, at Mifflinburg, manufactures an article for the preservation of leather which has genuine merit. Never saw its equal to keep boots soft, pliable and water proof. Are glad to note that John is doing a slashing business with his "Life of Leather,

—The tall form of Mr. Joseph C. Nesbit, Architect, of East Lewisburg was seen in and around the new church last Friday, measure in hand, inspecting, directing, adjusting and approving. The building as far as made, passed muster very well. Mr esbit is pleased with the work.

WANTED.—About 3500 first class 1½ inch yellow pine flooring in the rough Need not be fully dry. Inquire at the Journal office. tf.

—One of the best places to stop "all along the line" is the Irvin House, Lock Haven. Everything in and around the establishment is right, good, orderly, and substantial. A social home feeling pervades the entire house, and a more genuine friendly and obliging man than the proprieter, Hon. S. Woods Caldwell, you can not meet anywhere, unless it be his genteel and effecient clerk Mr. G. W. Robe. Yes, we are in love with the Irvin House, and advise our readers to stop there while at Lock Haven.

—Lewin's Philadelphia Branch Clothing House is as good a place to buy as can be found anywhere. Whether you want an overcoat, a suit for yourself or your boy, or only a single garment of any kind, Lewin is the man for you. His large store is chock full of every kind, grade and prices of clothing, and you can suit yourself fully, whether you want a wedding outfit or whether you need clothing in which to chop wood or curry horses. Try Lewin.

—DOLL & MINGLE the enterprising Boot & Shoe dealers in Bellefonte keep a full stock of everything in their line. Any possible style or kind of boots, shoes, slippers and overshoes are there, and their prices are as low as the lowest. Give them a call and you will find that you can fully suit yourself both as regards quality and price. "Cap," the obliging junior of the firm, will treat and serve you in best style. 6t

—For some time our faith has been tried to its utmost tension as to whether we would have our usual quota of apples, potatoes, and turnips this year. But we have been most agreeably surprised one day last week when a good friend informed us that he had reserved a sufficiency of fine apples for our special use. How grateful we feel to kind Providence and our considerate friend! And now if other good friends, individualy or collectively, would help us out with about ten bushels of potatoes and say three bushels of turnips, we would be entirely happy on that score. But let there be no misunderstanding about the matter. We have neither gold nor silver, but lots of Journals wherewith to pay such things.

—On Sunday evening an accident happened here which came very near proving fatal to one of our most estimable young ladies. Mr. and Mrs. James A. Keen, Miss Salina Gephart and Miss Ada Eisenhuth had been to Woodward attending a religious meeting—all on one spring wagon. They came home at a late hour and had stopped in front of Esquire Eisenhuth's to let Miss Eisenhuth off. Mr Keen offered to dismount and assist her, but she protested, proposing to jump off the wagon, in doing which her dress caught in the lock of the wagon and she fell headlong on the hard pavement. At first it was thought she was fataly injured, and for a time she appeared to be lifeless, but after a free use of restoratives she recovered and is now doing right well, although considerably bruised in the face and chest. Hope she may soon fully recover.

—THE BEE HIVE STORE in Lock Haven, is now under the management of J. F. Everett & Co. Under the new firm it loses nothing of the high standing and extensive reputation it so long enjoyed under the late lamented proprietor, Mr. J. J. Everett, The present Mr. Everett has been engaged in the Bee Hive as salesman for some years and is fully competentent to manage its extensive and flourishing business. He is familiar with all the department details of the large establishment and fully understands the wants and wishes of the people. Our readers can feel assured that they will receive the best possible treatment at the Bee Hive, that the goods there are of the best quality and the prices the very lowest. It is simply one of the best stores in the state, Read their advertisment in another column.

SPRING MILLS ITEMS

The other Sunday Mr. I. J. Grenoble was about to start for church in a buggy. The horse started on a full run, but Mr. G. got him checked, when he threw himself spilling out Israel. Timely assistance saved a general wreck.

Mr. Daniel Rankle came very near losing a valuable horse the other Tuesday. The horse backed down over the enbankment of the turnpike with a cart loaded with stone hitched to him, near David Barree's. It is a wonder that the animal was not instantly killed.

On Wednesday night at about 12 o'clock the cry of fire was heard in town and it was soon ascertained to be the fine dwelling house of Mr. J. G. Evans. In a very short time some fifty of the neighbors were on hand and every exertion was made to save the building, but in vain. The wash house was built up against the main building, and the fire originated in the flue of the furnace of the former. Nearly all the household goods were saved, except what was in the attic and cellar. The people did nobly and very little of what was saved was injured, as is often the case at fires.

UNCLE TOM.

CARD.—Prof. Wolf and Mr. J. G. Evans and family hereby return their sincere thanks to their neighbors and friends for their kind assistance rendered during the fire.

—The new Evangelical church at Aaronsburg will be dedicated to the service of Almighty God, no preventing providence, on Sunday Nov. 20th next. Bishop T. Bowman will officiate. The public is heartily invited to attend.

BELLEFONTE LETTER.

Local Industries—R. R. Improvements. Y. M. C. A. Boy's Branch—Speculative Insurance.

BELLEFONTE, PA., Nov. 5, 1881.

Persons visiting Bellefonte never fail to speak of the unmistakable evidences of material prosperity surrounding us. One institution, the Car Works, is doing much towards advancing the interests of many of our citizens, and the demand for skilled workmen has trought among us many desirable, social acquisitions, while the necessary expenses of these families have appreciably effected the different branches of business, for they have the disposing of about three thousand dollars twice each month. The abolition of the order system is a gigantic stride in the right direction and fully demonstrates the practicability of the theory that workmen can purchase their own goods as cheaply as can their employers.

The unavoidable delay in the matter of the new R. R. is a disappointment to all, but that the road will be built, despite the efforts of those who by a futile attempt to withhold the land rights are apparently throwing wet blankets on the scheme, is assured, since the gentlemen who propose to do it are seldom, if ever, completely defeated in any of their undertakings. Their conservative business principles are a positive assurance that they mean business. We can look for the completion of this road next summer. Its importance consists in the fact that the richest deposit of iron ore in Pennsylvania will be developed. One firm now ships over one hundred tons daily. As to the manufacture of this ore into commercial iron at home we shall have more to say again.

Perhaps the grandest work ever undertaken by any society in Bellefonte is now being prosecuted by the Y. M. C. A. in its efforts to gather the boys of the town, into a subordinate organization strictly their own and called the Boys' Branch; the ages range from 9 to 15 years, and the boys of each age constituting a distinct class or company in charge of a competent person known as captain. The object of the movement is to bring the boys directly under moral, educational and social influence that may tend to improve them. They are expected to report en masse at their rooms on Monday night of each week, and can be there at all times from 6 to 9 P. M., this being optional with the boys or their parents. Popular literature, innocent games, splendid rooms and attentive managers are some of the inducements held out to attract those whom the society wishes to benefit. The principal supporters of the Boys' Branch are our business men, who already have contributed $1500 to its support. The first of a series of entertainments was held in the Court House on Tuesday 1st, Ralph Bingham, the boy orator, of Richmond Va., held his large audience spell bound for more than an hour. Smith's orchestra furnished the music. Our venerable friend Hon. S. T. Shugert remarked "This will do the boys some good, and I am sure they are being amused." I congratulate both the Y. M. C. A. and the "Boys" wish them many years of usefulness, and trust the favorable appearance now noticed may ever remain. Why could not Millheim arouse enough of interest and be able to boast having in its midst one of these most salutary organizations? You have the material in abundance and much good would result from its being utilized. Who will move? [Yes—who? Ed.]

Speculative Insurance seems to be booming and is enjoying a season of prosperity that it certainly does not merit—the time has arrived for some active measures to be taken to stem the flood of wholesale speculation. I have before me now the prospectus of a company located in Union Co. that as an inducement, says "any one can become a member without regard to age or health, no medical examination being required." Comment is worse than useless. Let a confiding public beware!

News Miscellany.

Diphtheria is worse than ever in Cambria county.

Judge Cummin, of Williamsport, in sentencing a prisoner for carrying concealed weapons, said there are only two classes, guilty of that offense, "one class is composed of cowards, the other of villains."

A bogus Odd Fellow is victimizing members of the order in neighboring counties. Look out for him men and brethren.

On the 12th instant, at Douglassville, Berks county, the policy holders in the various graveyard insurance companies, who have grown weary of the frequent assessments, will assemble, form in procession and make a bonfire of the worthless but expensive policies.

A fourteen year old daughter of David Harman, of Upper Latimore, Adams county, ran a splinter in her foot. A week after lockjaw set in and she died from the effects last week.

About 4 hundred milkmen were required to stand in line on Saturday morning in front of the Erie railway depot at Jersey City while the state inspecter of milk and a detective force examined their cans. About two thousand gallons of milk were dumped into the streets and five milkmen, all of New York, were assessed and fined fifty-five dollars each.

The citizens of Lewisburg have now raised $10,000 for the University at Lewisburg. This secures to the institution an additional endowment of $100,000, of which William Bucknell, of Philadelphia, gives $50,000.

NEWSPAPER SHARKS—that is, that class who take a paper for a number of years and then skip without paying for it—are reminded by a contemperary that "the new postal law now makes the taking of a newspaper and the refusal to pay for the same, theft; any person guilty of such an action is liable to proceedings, the same as if he had stolen goods to the amount of subscription." A New York paper has already commenced suit against several subscribers for such an offese.

There were five deaths from mining accidents in Schuylkill county last week.

AGRICULTURE.

EGGS VS. MEAT.—Would it not be wise to substitute more eggs for meat in our daily diet? About one-third of the weight of an egg is solid nutriment. This is more than can be said of meat. There are no bones, no tough pieces that have to be laid aside. A good egg is made up of ten parts shell, sixty parts white and thirty parts yelk. The white of an egg contains sixty-six per cent. water, the yelk fifty-two per cent. Practically an egg is animal food, and yet there is none of the disagreeable work of the butcher necessary to obtain it. The vegetarians of England use eggs freely, and many of these men are eighty and ninety years old, and have been remakably free from illness. Eggs are best when cooked four minutes. This takes away the animal taste that is offensive to some, but does not harden the white or yelk so as to make them hard to digest. An egg if cooked very hard is difficult of digestion except by those of stout stomachs; such eggs should be eaten with bread masticated very finely. An egg spread on toast is food fit for a king, if kings deserve any better food than anybody else, which is doubtful. Fried eggs are less wholesome than boiled ones. An egg dropped into hot water is not only a clean and handsome, but a delicious morsel. Most people spoil the taste of their eggs by adding pepper and salt. A little sweet butter is the best dressing. Eggs contain much phosphorus, which is supposed to be useful to those who use their brains much.

CLOSER FARMING.—The subdivision of farms by the future farmer of East Pennsylvania means a change and a diversity of products, no less than the competition of other sections. For it is plain that if an acre can be made to produce $100, where before four acres produced $25 each, the same area will support just four times the former amount of agricultural occupation, whether by new methods and increased care the yield is of the same product as before or by the introduction of a new interest the cultivation of the lands is turned to better advantage. Up to a certain point there can be no doubt that two blades of grass may be made to grow where only one grew; and where the farmer who now raises fifteen bushels of wheat to the acre might raise thirty, or who now grows forty bushels of corn might produce eighty or one hundred, he has not yet given such a fair trial to his present opportunities as to entitle him to experiment with an increased acreage or to turn his lands to new crops. The future farmer of East Pennsylvania will first of all, by all methods not exhaustive of the soil, so till his lands as to get the largest available yield of the crops which he now cultivates with profit.

HORSES that have had good care will come out in the spring in good trim for the season's work. As the coat begins to loosen, the skin is irritated; an ounce of equal parts of sulphur and cream of tartar, given with the food for a few days, will correct this. Good grooming with a soft brush should not be neglected. Ground feed, mixed with cut hay, is an excellent food in the spring for working horses. Three quarts of equal parts of corn and rye (or oats), mixed with a pailful of moist cut hay, is enough for a meal. An occasional feed of cut beets or potatoes is useful. With many experienced horsemen an occasional feed of half a peck of potatoes is regarded as a remedy for worms in horses. However this may be, they improve the general condition of the animal in a most positive manner. The main point is to keep the horses in good health and strength, for upon them devolves a great part of the spring work. As foaling time approaches, good mares should be turned loose in a box stall and receive the most gentle treatment, as the temper and disposition of the colt is thought to depend much upon this.

SEEDING THE BARE SPOTS.—Occasionally there is a bare spot in the permanent pasture, or a half-acre patch in the clover field has failed to catch, and how to remedy it is an important question. To seed with rye and grass seed, early in the fall, is the best way to manage these spots. If, as is often the case, it is poverty of soil that causes them, sow a little bone meal, or scatter some fine manure over them. It will pay to spend ten dollars an acre, or more if necessary, to redeem a barren spot in a permanent pasture; for such places are not only eye-sores, but yield no profit, and the interest on ten dollars is a small amount. In seeding poor spots, always use an extra amount of seed, as it is not as likely to grow as on richer land.

WORK FOR A SLACK TIME.—When it gets too dry to plow, as is often the case in early fall, farmers are sometimes at a loss as to what they had better put the hands and teams to doing. This is the time to attend to little things which are likely to be neglected. In the hillside fields there are often washes starting, and if in addition there are some loose stones, here are two things that ought to be put together. Make a brush dam occasionally; put a little straw above it, and then put your stone on the straw, and you have a barrier that will catch the wash and stop the gully.

OUR best farmers are beginning to learn, and in fact, most of them have already learned, that the time spent in destroying weeds in the autumn is well spent, and that if they would save time in cultivating hoed crops they must keep the weeds from seeding as much as possible in all parts of the farm; a little carelessness in this respect will soon cover a farm with weed seeds. A single root of milk weed in a mowing field, if left unmolested, will spread over and take possession of a large field in a few years.

THERE are as many as 4 000 known species of grasses distributed over the world, and there is not a soil to which some of them are not indigenous. Some grow best on dry, sterile soils, others on rich land, some thriving best in marshes, and wet places, and some on the sea coast. Those that are best suited for permanent pasture thrive in luxuriance under cultivation, and are somewhat limited in number compared with the entire species.

Experiments with concentrated fertilizers are often spoiled just as crops are injured or lost through wrong application. Farmers are apt to think the manure must be put close to the seed, else the plant will not get the benefit of it. The real truth of the matter is, that it is not the plant just germinated that needs the aid of the fertilizer, but the plant which already has a start and needs helping on to the finish.

VERMIN on fowls and about hen roosts will leave headquarters by injecting from a syringe a weak steep in water of pennyroyal herb tea. Drive this weak steep thoroughly over the roosts and the poultry and it will cleanse them from lice. Several varieties of flies annoy and suck blood from horses and other animals. Pennyroyal steep will drive them away if the animal is washed with it.

THE lustre of morocco leather is restored by varnishing with white of egg.

DOMESTIC.

A HOME-MADE HAMMOCK.—A New Bedford carpenter constructed a hammock after an original idea. The only material necessary is an ordinary flour barrel and some rope. The hoops are knocked off and the staves separated. A hole is then bored through the center of each end of the stave, and the rope is simply reeved in and out of these holes so that they are fastened firmly at intervals of three or four inches apart.

A BATTER.—Take two eggs, yolks and whites, and beat them up light; stir them into half a pint of milk, and just half of your pint of flour which you are going to use; when this is smooth add to the other half-pint of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, and last, mind, one teaspoonful of sweet-oil; it will come with a little working nice and smooth. You can eat it alone when properly fried with sugar and lemon-juice, but on apples or peaches and bananas it is excellent.

TO DRIVE AWAY FLIES.—Buy an ounce of oil of lavender and pour half of it in a pint bottle of cold water, and shake it up; the mixture is a mechanical one only; if dissolved in alcohol it is a perfect solution; but this only becomes more expensive: scatter your water and oil of lavender over the table-cloth and the flies will go away: three or four doses suffice to drive away a pest of flies from a country boarding house table.

CHEAP SPONGE CAKE.—Three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of water and a teacupful of sugar mixed together; a teacupful and a half of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a pinch of salt stirred quickly in; season with a teaspoonful of essence of vanilla, or half a lemen, bake in a quick oven. It can be baked in jelly-cake pans, and have pastry cooks' cream, lemon icing, or chocolate between.

WORK BASKET.—Take two common peach baskets, paint them black and varnish them. Fasten them together by the bottoms, and line them with silk. The top one can be furnished by having two little pockets, a needle-book and pin-cushion. On each outside panel put a bright embossed picture, and around the top of each basket put a strip of gilt paper. They are truly pretty when finished.

PUREE OF STRING BEANS.—Take any cold string beans which may be left from dinner, chop them very finely until they are a soft mass, heat them thoroughly with a generous spoonful of the best butter, and add pepper and salt to taste. A little cream is an improvement. Serve on a platter with broiled chops arrange about the puree.

PUFF PASTE WITH MILK.—Mix with a spoon three-fourths of a pound of butter with one pound of flour, then add milk enough to moisten the whole, so as to roll easily. Do not mould it with the hands at all, or as little as possible, and the crust will be found much nicer made this way than by the old methods requiring more labor.

BEEFSTEAK AND OYSTER PIE.—Beat the steak gently with a rolling-pin, and season with pepper and salt. Have ready a deep dish lined with not too rich a pastry. Put in the meat with layers of oysters; then the oyster liquor with a little mace, and a teaspoon of catsup; cover with top crust and bake. Veal will do as well as beef.

JAPANESE TIDIES.—Paste a Japanese picture on a square of white glazed cambric, then a row of black velvet overlapping the edges; outside of this a row of bright satin ribbon, and put on a row of white lace to form a ruffle. A picture pasted on a square of pink satin and edged with white Breton lace is handsome.

LACE AND VELVET TIDIES.—These are made by sewing velvet ribbon and insertion together alternately, finishing them with a row of lace and insertion. Black velvet and white lace look best, but some like colors. Scarlet velvet and black lace look very rich.

APPLE PRESERVES.—Take some pleasant sour apples, pare them, take the core out at the bottom, and leave the stem in: make a syrup of white sugar and water to half cover the apples; bake or boil them till they are just done through. Serve them up whole, with loaf sugar and cream.

FOR COLD MEAT:—Spiced plums are delicious with cold meat. Cook the plums in a little water until they are soft, then, so far as possible, remove the stones, sweeten and spice to your taste and boil until thick, put in large-mouthed bottles and seal, or can in the usual way.

A NICE DISH.—Lamb steak dipped in egg, and then in crackers or bread crumbs, and fried until it is brown, helps make variety for the breakfast table. With baked sweet potatoes, good coffee and buttered toast, or corn muffins one may begin the day with courage.

A MERINO or cashmere dress may be mended neatly by wetting a piece of court plaster of exactly the same shade as the goods, and putting it on the wrong side, pressing down every frayed edge and every thread, and laying a weight on it until it is thoroughly dry.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.—Take a cup of cream off the milk pans every morning when you make bread; it will make the bread moist, white and delicate, and you will hardly miss it from the cream.

IF a shirt bosom, or any other article has been scorched in ironing, lay it where the bright sun will fall directly upon it. It will take it entirely out.

THREE parts lard, one of rosin, melted together forms one of the best coatings for iron or steel implements in use out of doors, as well as to prevent rust.

MUCILAGE.—Four ounces gum arabic, two of powdered white sugar, half teaspoonful oil of cloves. Dissolve all together in a pint of water. This will neither mold nor sour.

A GOOD HAIR WASH.—Powdered borax, one ounce; camphor, one ounce; boiled water, one quart. Apply to the roots of the hair with a flannel or sponge once a week.

TO TAKE grease from silk.—Moisten the spot with chloroform, then rub with a cloth until perfectly dry. It will not injure the most delicate color.

THE best duster with which to clean carved furniture is a new paint brush; you can remove absolutely all the dust with it. Try it.

ALL explosions of petroleum lamps are caused by the vapor of gas that collects above the oil.

NEARLY nine-tenths of rice is starch; of Indian corn and barley more than two-thirds.

GROUND bone, fish guano and wood ashes are excellent fertilizers for strawberries.

WIT AND HUMOR.

"DARLING, wake up and stop snoring," said a Detroit woman to her husband. "Eh? Whazza the matter now?" he asked as he half raised up in bed. "Won't you please stop snoring! If you only knew how homesick it made me I'm sure you would." "Homesick! How the deuce can my snore make you homesick?" "Why, you know, darling that the home on the coast from which you took me a joyous bride, was only a half mile from a government foghorn, and every time you snore it reminds me so of home that I just can't stand it. Please lay on your side and have some little respect for my feelings." And then the brute spread himself out on his back and in five minutes had her bathed in tears as visions of the old home crept upon her.

SOMEWEAT too-too: "Whew! but this is a scorcher," remarked one of our New-Haven "toners." "Ya-as. It is ra-ather warm. Why didn't you bring out your bamboo suit this weather?" queried his chum. "Well, you see it is saffron yellow, and just the coolest suit in the world. But it jolts the boys a little too much. When a horse car has to stop to inspect a fellow's clothes it is time to quit."

No Benefit.

An Indiana newspaper thus writes: Mr. Geo. F. Helderle, of Peru, Ind., says that he has suffered very much with Rheumatism and used many remedies without benefit. He found the desired relief in St. Jacob's Oil.

A CUNNING sentimentalist: He was wealthy but penurious, and this is what he said to the suitor for his daughter's hand: "Yes you can have her. But you must elope with her. I can't stand the expense of a swell wedding, and the romance of the elopement will make up for the lack of show and we'll save $500 on expenses. Go it."

"MR. SMITH, you said you suspected the prisoner was a rogue the moment you saw him. Why did you suspect him?" "Becos 'e 'ired my rooms without beatin' down the price." "Is that rule without many exceptions?" "Hit's a rule without no exceptions, yer worship; honest men are halways stingy, and never satisfied hunless they get a shilling's worth of anything for tenpence."

MR. RAGBAG was only 23 when his eldest son was born. We remember the day well. We congratulated him. But he didn't seem very jolly. Not but what it was a fine boy, and Ragbag was wealthy so a family was no burden to him. But he said: "Good Lord, old friend, just think of it! Here at the early age of 23 I've got to begin setting a good example!"

[Pottstown Daily Ledger].

A Michigan journal relates the following; Amos James, Esq., proprietor of the Huron House, Port Huron, Mich., suffered so badly with Rheumatism that he was unable to raise his arm for three months. Five bottles of St. Jacob's Oil cured him entirely.

"WISH to leave, Parkins? Why, you only came yesterday!"—"Yes, marm! Hin engaging I thought you were sparrer grass gentry; but when I 'ears from the cook last night that you eat pertaters, cabbages, carrots, and such like second-hand vegetables, I sees there ain't nothing hesthetic in it, and I resign my office so to speak."

IN demand; "X, with his wife and a friend, is seated on the beach when a passing gentleman bows to the friend. "That is Monsieur R.," he says, "the eminent divorce lawyer, who has never lost a case." Ah!" cried X. and his wife in the one breath, "present us."

HER legal representative: A woman, rather shabbily-dressed, entered a store on the Avenue and asked the merchant at his desk to give her a dollar for the support of her aged mother. "You can't come that game on me. Your mother died last week." "Well, ain't I her heir? Don't I represent her?"

"You saved my life on one occasion," said a beggar to a captain under whom he had served,—"Saved your life?" replied the officer. "Do you think that I'm a doctor?"—"No," answered the man, "but I served under you in the battle of Majuba Hill, and when you ran away I followed."

AN old man with a head as destitute of hair as a watermelon, entered an Austin Avenue drug store and told the clerk he wanted a bottle of hair restorer. "What kind of hair restorer do you prefer?" "I reckon I'll have to take a bottle of red hair restorer. That was the color it used to be when I was a boy."

"Mother has Recovered"

wrote an Illinois girl to her Eastern relatives. "She took bitters for a long time but without any good. So when she heard of the virtues of Kidney-Wort she got a box and it has completely cured her, so that she can do as much work now as she could before we moved West. Since she has got well, everyone about here is taking it." See adv.

PROFESSOR to child (angry at inattention): "Another minute, mees, and I shall go and speak to your mamma." Pupil: "Well, take care pa don't catch you at it, that's all! He's awful jealous."

A CLERK in a city house recently asked for a half a day's absence because he wanted to attend a funeral in the country. When he returned the next morning with red hands and a freckled face, his employer asked quietly, "Where are the fish?"

AN old lady was telling her grandchildren about some trouble in Scotland, in the course of which the chief of her clan was beheaded. "It was nae great thing of a head, to be sure," said the good lady, "but it was a sad loss to him."

"THIS House for Sail" was the way the landlord spelled the announcement. A smart fellow came along and asked: "When will the house sail?"—"As soon as some one comes along that can raise the wind," was the cool answer.

AN Irish lady was so much on her guard against betraying her national accent that she is reported to have spoken of the "creature of Vesuvius," fearing that the crater would betray her again.

THERE is no limit to human courage. With the thermometer tearing through the nineties men and women still stand up and get married.

AN adage knocked sky high: Time is money, but it doesn't go into circulation again after it is once passed.

Cause and Effect.

The main cause of nervousness is indigestion, and that is caused by weakness of the stomach. No one can have sound nerves and good health without using Hop Bitters to strengthen the stomach, purify the blood, and keep the liver and kidneys active, to carry off all the poisonous and waste matter of the system.

VEGETINE

FOR

Chills, Shakes, FEVER AND AGUE.

TARBORO, N. C., 1878.

DR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—I feel very grateful for what your valuable medicine, Vegetine, has done in my family. I wish to express my thanks by informing you of the wonderful cure of my son; also, to let you know that Vegetine is the best medicine I ever saw for CHILLS, SHAKES, FEVER and AGUE. My son was sick with measles in 1873, which left him with Hip-Joint disease. My son suffered a great deal of pain all of the time; the pain was so great he did nothing but cry. The doctors did not help him a particle, he could not lift his foot from the floor; he could not move without crutches. I read your advertisement in the "Louisville Courier Journal," that Vegetine was a great Blood Purifier and Blood Food. I tried one bottle, which was a great benefit. He kept on with the medicine, gradually gaining. He has taken eighteen bottles in all, and he is completely restored to health; walks without crutches or cane. He is twenty years of age. I have a younger son, fifteen years of age, who is subject to CHILLS. Whenever he feels one coming on, he comes in, takes a dose of Vegetine, and that is the last of the Chill. Vegetine leaves no bad effect upon the system like most of the medicines recommended for Chills. I cheerfully recommend Vegetine for such complaints. I think it is the greatest medicine in the world.

Respectfully MRS. J. W. LLOYD.

VEGETINE.—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

VEGETINE.

Druggists' Testimony.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—We have been selling your remedy, the Vegetine, for about three year, and take pleasure in recommending it to our customers, and in no instance where a blood purifier would reach the case, has it ever failed to effect a cure, to our knowledge. It certainly is the ne plus ultra of renovators. Respectfully,

E. M. SHEPHERD & CO., Druggists,

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Is a Positive Cure

for all those Painful Complaints and Weaknesses so common to our best female population.

It will cure entirely the worst form of Female Complaints, all ovarian troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Falling and Displacements, and the consequent Spinal Weakness, and is particularly adapted to the Change of Life.

It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.

It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion.

That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use.

It will at all times and under all circumstances act in harmony with the laws that govern the female system.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints of either sex this Compound is unsurpassed.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND is prepared at 233 and 235 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Price $1. Six bottles for $5. Sent by mail in the form of pills, also in the form of lozenges, on receipt of price, $1 per box for either. Mrs. Pinkham freely answers all letters of inquiry. Send for pamphlet. Address as above. Mention this Paper.

No family should be without LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S LIVER PILLS. They cure constipation, biliousness, and torpidity of the liver. 25 cents per box.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene B. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four prominent physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was ended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking "barrels of other medicines," Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him "well as ever."

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES
KIDNEY DISEASES,
LIVER COMPLAINTS,
Constipation and Piles.

☞ It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form in tin cans, one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

☞ It acts with equal efficiency in either form.

Mr. F. W. King of Edinburgh has invented a method of steering by electricity, by which the compass itself is made to steer the vessel, independent of a helmsman. The compass card is fitted with an index of the vessel's course, and this pointer is connected with an electric system worked by a single Daniell cell. This system controls an hydraulic steering apparatus. It is said that a slight deviation of the vessel from its true course suffices to send a current from the cell to the controlling valves of the steering gear by bringing the index in contact with pins placed one degree on each side of the course.

Shan't I take a Blue Pill?

No, don't take it and run the risk of mercurial poisons, but when bilious and constipated get a package of the celebrated Kidney-Wort, and it will speedily cure you. It is nature's great remedy for constipation, and for all kidney and liver diseases. It acts promptly on these great organs and so restores health, strength and vigor. It is put up in liquid and dry form, both acting with equal efficiency. Price $1. See Adv.

M. Friedel has introduced a new liquid hydro-carbon, which according to recent experiments, seems to be possessed of extraordinary qualities. It boils at one hundred degrees Fahrenheit, gives a brilliant white light, unaccompanied by heat; and the slightest puff of wind will extinguish it in case of accidental ignition. The corner of a pocket handkerchief, or even the finger, can be dipped into it, lighted, and used as a temporary torch, without any injury to the novel wick.

The Hotchkiss revolving gun, already adopted in the French and other great navies, has been ordered for use lately in the German navy, the ships to "be armed with this weapon in such a manner that every point surrounding each vessel may be protected by the fire of at least two guns at a minimum range of two hundred metres."

Schulze has found that sulphyrl-chloride may be prepared very readily by passing chlorine gas into a fluid mixture of camphor and sulphurous acid. Byalternately passing in sulphurous acid and chlorine, keeping the mixture cold, an almost unlimited quantity can be obtained.

A Lady's Wish.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so, answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me, as you observe." Read of it.

"WHAT is three card monte?"

"It is a bad, bad game."

"Who plays three card monte?"

"One man who looks like a farmer. One man who looks like a new-school philospher."

"Can two play this game?"

"Yes, my child. Even four can play at this game."

"What does the fourth man do?'

"He gets left, my child. He gets badly left. He loses all his money. He pulls his hair and uses wicked words."

"Then the fourth man is an ass for playing."

THOUSANDS of persons who are bald today might have full heads of hair if they would only use Carboline, a deoderized extract of petroleum, which is the only preparation ever discovered that will really do this.

A YOUNG gentleman somewhat numerous in social circles took his sister, a wee miss, to see a family in which he is a regular caller. The little girl made herself quite at home, and exhibited great fondness for one of the young ladies, hugging her heartily.

"How very affectionate she is!" said the lady of the house.

"Yes, just like her brother," responded the young lady, unthinkingly.

Paterfamilias looked up sternly over his spectacles, the young gentleman blushed, and there was consternation in the family circle.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound will, at all times and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the female system.

A TOUGH HORSE STORY.

The Cincinnati Enquirer lately published the following horse story, which we give just as it appeared: "A curious instance of sagacity in the horse occurred recently in the stables of Mr. A. Toughman, situated on North Elm street. Mr. T. has for a long time been in the habit of using ST. JACOBS OIL, the Great German Remedy, in his extensive stables. Among Mr. T.'s many horses is a great, powerful Canadian draught horse. This animal in course of time got so that that he knew the ST. JACOBS OIL bottle very well; so well, in fact, that one day recently on Mr. T.'s return from business, upon entering the stables he caught him licking the sore shoulder of a beast which stood beside him; the animal, giving a wise survey to his licking work, turned his head and caught up with his teeth from the box used as its receptable a bottle of ST. JACOBS OIL. He threw the bottle on the floor with violence enough to break it, and then deliberately licked up the ST. JACOBS OIL and applied it to the cut. Readers, we have seen the laws of association belied by beings with less sense than Toughman's horse. The word has passed among us, and when we see a man who won't try the Oil, we say, 'He is worse than Toughman's horse.'" To many this may appear as a very "tough" story; and were there not proofs innumerable of the efficacy of the Great German Remedy they would be justified in so designating it. The testimony, however, is plentiful and pointed, and is from people whose long experience in matters appertaining to horseflesh entitles their opinions to profound consideration and respect.

HEALTH IS WEALTH.

HEALTH of BODY is WEALTH of MIND.

Radway's SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT.

Pure blood makes sound flesh, strong bone and a clear skin. If you would have your flesh firm, your bones sound without caries, and your complexion fair, use Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent.

A remedy composed of ingredients of extraordinary medical properties essential to purify, heal, repair and invigorate the broken-down and wasted body—QUICK, PLEASANT, SAFE and PERMANENT in its treatment and cure.

No matter by what name the complaint may be designated, whether it be Scrofula, Consumption, Syphilis, Ulcers, Sores, Tumors, Boils, Erysipelas, or Salt-Rheum, diseases of the Lungs, Kidneys, Bladder, Womb, Skin, Liver, Stomach or Bowels, either chronic or constitutional, the virus of the disease is in the BLOOD which supplies the waste, and builds and repairs these organs and wasted tissues of the system. If the blood is unhealthy, the process of repair must be unsound.

The Sarsaparillian Resolvent not only is a compensating remedy, but secures the harmonious action of each of the organs. It establishes throughout the entire system functional harmony, and supplies the blood-vessels with a pure and healthy current of new life. The skin, after a few days use of the Sarsaparillian, becomes clear and beautiful. Pimples, Blotches, Black Spots and Skin Eruptions are removed; Sores and Ulcers soon cured. Persons suffering from Scrofula, Eruptive Diseases of the Eyes, Mouth, Ears, Legs, Throat and Glands, that have accumulated and spread, either from uncured diseases or mercury, or from the use of Corrosive Sublimate, may rely upon a cure if the Sarsaparillian is continued a sufficient time to make its impression on the system.

One bottle contains more of the active principles of medicines than any other preparation. Taken in Teaspoonful Doses, while others require five or six times as much. One Dollar Per Bottle.

MINUTE REMEDY.

Only requires minutes not hours to relieve pain and cure acute disease.

RADWAY'S

Ready Relief,

In from one to twenty minutes, never fails to relieve PAIN with one thorough application; no matter how violent or excruciating the pain the Rheumatic, Bed-ridden, Infirm, Crippled, Nervous, Neuralgic or prostrated with disease man suffer, RADWAY'S READY RELIEF will afford instant ease.

Inflammation of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, Inflammation of the Bowels, Congestion of the Lungs, Sore Throat, Difficult Breathing, Palpitation of the Heart, Hysterics, Croup, Diphtheria, Catarrh, Influenza, Headache, Toothache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Cold Chills, Ague Chills, Chilblains, and Frost Bites, Bruises, Summer Complaints, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Coughs, Colds, Sprains, Pains in the Chest, Back or Limbs are instantly relieved.

Fever and Ague.

FEVER and AGUE cured for 50 cents. There is not a remedial agent in this world that will cure Fever and Ague, and other Malarious, Bilious, Scarlet, Typhoid, Yellow and other fevers (aided by Radway's Pills) so quickly as RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

It will in a few moments, when taken according to directions, cure Cramps, Spasms, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Sick Headache, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Wind in the Bowels, and all Internal Pains.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French brandy or bitters as a stimulant.

Miners and Lumbermen should always be provided with it.

CAUTION.

All remedial agents capable of destroying life by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, opium, strychnine, arnica, hyoscianus, and other powerful remedies, does at certain times, in very small doses, relieve the patient during their action in the system. But perhaps the second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and increase the suffering, and another dose cause death. There is no necessity for using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like Radway's Ready Relief will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult.

THE TRUE RELIEF.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is the only remedial agent in vogue that will instantly stop pain.

Fifty Cents Per Bottle.
